

Trial Implementation of a Congestion Tax in Stockholm

A congestion tax is being put into trial operation in Stockholm up until 31 July 2006. This applies only to vehicles registered in Sweden. Foreign registered vehicles are not subject to this tax.

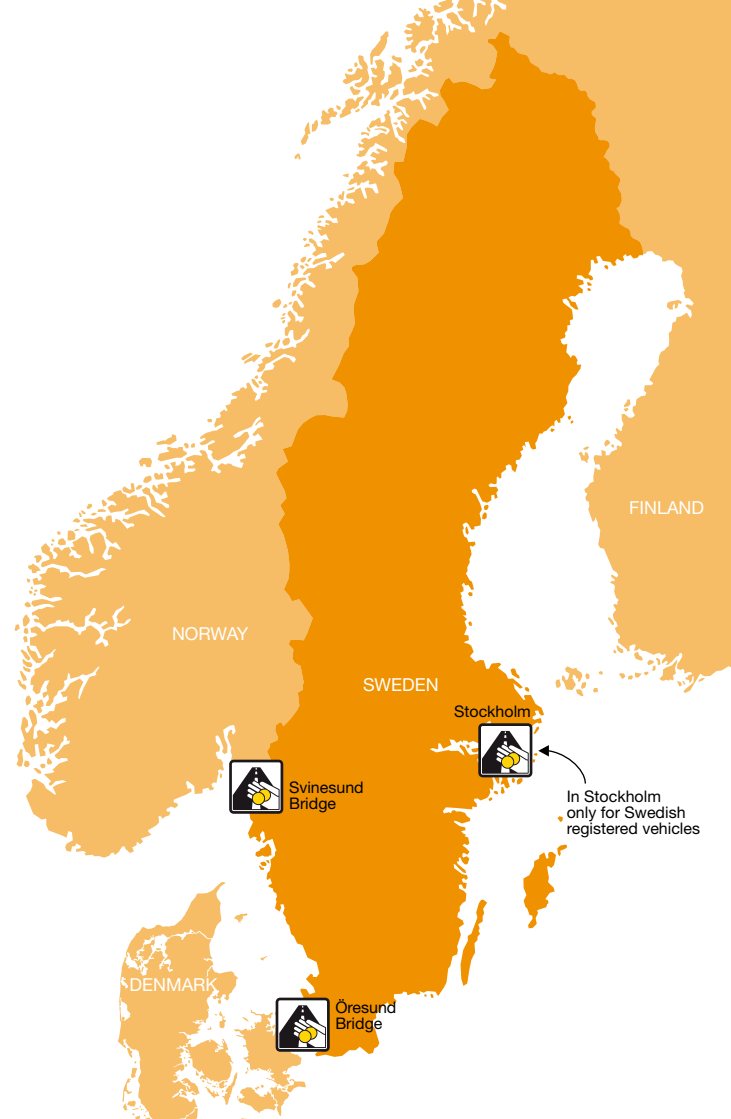

Vehicles are registered automatically at the control points so as not to disrupt the flow of traffic. Drivers are not to stop at these control points.

Swedish Toll Roads

A new toll road sign is being used in Sweden to indicate the location of a control point. This sign is posted around the city of Stockholm as well as at the new Svinesund Bridge between Sweden and Norway (on the E6). It is also the intention to post this sign by the Öresund Bridge between Sweden and Denmark (on the E20).

Swedish as well as foreign registered vehicles are charged for driving across the Svinesund and Öresund Bridge. In these cases, payment is made directly at the control points or automatically via onboard units called "Autopass" or "Brobizz".

Swedish registered vehicles are taxed automatically at the control points (in Swedish: Betalstation). Drivers are not to stop at these points.
